REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

1. Claims 1-8 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The present invention is directed to a liquid crystal display device which builds in the tables by actually measuring the over-driving voltages needed for properly driving the liquid crystal panel within a frame period. The tables include all the over-driving image data that drives the pixels from any gray scale to another so that the processor used to extract the brief table is no longer required. Additionally, the driving circuit and the driving method of the present invention is capable of selecting different tables according to gamma and temperature of the LCD panel for the LUT.

The closest prior art, Huang (US 6,172,465) discloses Kwon (US 5,729,297) discloses scanning line interpolator using a gamma correction memory includes a controller for outputting switching control signals according to an input video signal (see the abstract). Kim et al. (US 7,081,906) discloses "the gray level rearranging unit 57 determines whether the one frame-delayed original image is rearranged, using the comparison result provided from the minimal distribution lower gray level determining unit 55. If the minimal distribution lower gray level is equal to or less than the critical value of presentation, the one frame-delayed original image is not rearranged but supplied to the gamma correcting unit 59" (see column 17, lines 4-11).

The improvement comprises a driving for the LCD comprising the steps of: (a) measuring reaction curves of the pixels of the LCD panel switched from any gray scale value to other gray scale values in a frame period, and generating a standard table according to the reaction curves measured; (b) measuring adjustment gray scale values of any gray scale value for different gammas; (c) generating a plurality of tables according to the adjustment gray scale values and the standard table; (d) applying scan voltages to the scan lines; (e) receiving image data from an image signal terminal; (f) delaying the image data for a frame period in order to generate delayed image data; (g) selecting a table from the standard table and the tables according to gamma; and (h) selecting an image data value from the selected table according to the current image data and the delayed image data and generating a data line voltage according to the image data value, applying the generated data line voltage on a corresponding data line.

And a driving for the LCD comprising the steps of: (a) applying scan voltages to the scan lines; (b) receiving image data from an image signal terminal; (c) delaying the image data for a frame period in order to generate delayed image data; (d) selecting a table from the standard table and the tables according to gamma; and (e) selecting an image data value from the selected table according to the current image data and the delayed image data, and generating a data line voltage according to the image data value, applying the generated data line voltage on a corresponding data line.

These patentable distinctions are included in all independent claims 1, 3, and 7.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
